Abstract

Brief report describing the general idea of my personal page.

1 Introduction

The goal of the site is to work as an online CV and personal information container. It will benefit me to share my results, tools, publications and other materials I develop.

2 Features

The web-site will include different sections:

- Main: The main section, a brief description of my interests, current position, contact information and links to other sections.
- CV: An inline CV, that has options to change the language and also to select different layouts depending on the interest of the viewer. For example, one layout will remark research publication, projects, teaching, etc. Other can be focused on my positions and studies, tech, tools..
- Publications: All the information of my publications, with options to filter by topics, quality, date, co-authors, etc
- Projects and other things: List of projects, program committees and other things related to research.
- Tools: access to different tools with their web-interface.
- Teaching: history of my teaching.
- Personal: maybe hidden section, with log-in to access to a NAS server that will contain documents, photos, videos, etc.

3 Survey

There are a lot of personal web-sites. But any of them fits completely. Also, one of the goals of the web-site is to show how do I manage with certain technologies.
